Victories in 2015

God blessed CBR with tremendous victories in 2015. Here we share a few of these successes made possible by your faithful support of our ministry.

CBR ARTICLES IN NATIONAL PUBLICATIONS

Executive Director of CBR, Gregg Cunningham, wrote a detailed article on the CBR abortion video clip that candidate Carly Fiorina courageously discussed as a serious concern in the presidential debate. We are thankful for several pro-life OB/GYN's who provided expert medical opinion that better enabled Mr. Cunningham to counter the pro-abortion attack on the video's veracity. Breitbart published the article on November 13, 2015: <http://bit.ly/1OjQ5kF>

CBR-Southeast Director Fletcher Armstrong had two excellent articles published at Townhall.com. The first is titled "In the Abortion Debate, the Facts Matter" and it can be read here: <http://bit.ly/1GNGZcx>. In the second article, "We Harvested the Brain of a Different Baby," Mr. Armstrong emphasizes how ludicrous Planned Parenthood's arguments have been in the midst of the firestorm created by Center for Medical Progress' expose of Planned Parenthood's fetal body parts harvesting: <http://bit.ly/1JpVQ99>

CHANGING THE SUBJECT AT UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

Capitalizing on the opportunity afforded by the furor students created by alleging racism on campus, we took our "All Black Lives Matter" signs to the University of Missouri on December 7-9, 2015. Student protesters had succeeded in forcing the resignation of the university president and were making all sorts of demands that threatened free speech on their campus. Their anger began to spread to other universities and colleges. We used the "All Black Lives Matter" signs along with our Genocide Awareness Project to awaken students to the plight of the preborn children. God gave us tremendous success as our team challenged students to move beyond selfish matters to care about the babies. One of the unexpected miracles that occurred was when CBR Board Member Pastor Clenard Childress, Jr. calmed down the screaming, cursing student leader who immediately approached our display after set-up. Pastor Childress gently corrected her and even gave her a "homework" research assignment. She returned to speak with him again after she had left for class. Read more about this amazing turn of events in Executive Director Gregg Cunningham's December letter.

POLLING DATA BACKS CBR STRATEGY

Canadian CBR (CCBR) has new statistical evidence that backs up what we have long known experientially: showing people abortion victim photos changes how they feel about abortion. We want to do what works, so CBR's strategy focuses heavily on showing the public the evidence that abortion kills a preborn baby. Our international affiliates all utilize our strategies in their countries to great effect.

This year, polling for CCBR was done by a leading firm which conducts polling for political parties, candidates, businesses, and charitable organizations. Opinion surveys that were taken in June and September 2015 focused on the Greater Toronto Area where CCBR has been active. All polls were conducted by a live agent telephone call within a two-week span. Both ridings had a survey size of over 400 and have a margin of error of +/-4.89%, 19/20.

CCBR reported in their December newsletter:

The quantitative evidence collected from the surveys strongly supports our premise that abortion victim photography changes how people feel about abortion. All respondents were asked if they had ever seen an image of an aborted fetus. Those who responded affirmatively were asked in what way it influenced their feelings about abortion. They were presented with three options: 1) I have a more positive feeling about abortion; 2) I have a more negative feeling about abortion; and 3) No effect at all.

Four polls were taken and the results were averaged. They demonstrated that 58.3 percent of the respondents had a more negative feeling about abortion after viewing the images, 35.4 percent reported no change and 6.2 percent reported a more positive feeling about abortion. The latter group surely needs our prayers.

EIGHT BABIES SAVED BY ONE CBR SIGN

Planned Parenthood in Orange, California, must be angry about their recent "lost" revenue due to mothers cancelling appointments to abort their preborn babies at this abortion mill. Pastor Neil Travisano of Calvary Chapel Mission Viejo reported that he has witnessed another pro-life volunteer using a CBR photo of a 12-week abortion victim to educate pregnant women who are going into Planned Parenthood. To overcome Planned Parenthood's 8-foot wall (erected to block the effectiveness of sidewalk counselors), this gentleman mounted the CBR photo on top of a pole that he hoists above the wall. Pastor Travisano gave us the wonderful news that eight babies have been confirmed saved in the short time that the CBR image has been used. The photos tell the truth and Jesus said, "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:32) Thank God that these babies are alive and their mothers are free from the horror of abortion.

TWO MILLION CHINESE SEE CBR ABORTION IMAGES

CBR partnered with an American pro-life group (whose name we cannot publish for security purposes) to expose the truth of abortion throughout China. We provided abortion and prenatal video footage which the group used to produce a strategic education DVD geared towards training pastors and lay leaders about abortion. The leader of the American group has been traveling throughout China educating and then challenging Christian leaders regarding what churches must do to address this sin. He reports that "seeing abortion leads to tears of deep repentance" on the part of Chinese Christians. World magazine published a recent cover story in which the reporter gave this vivid description:

The top leaders of the house church network—many are middle-aged women—gathered in a hard-to-find building on the outskirts of a city in Northern China. There they learned about Bible passages on the value of human life and the sin of murdering the innocent. They then watched a graphic video of what an abortion does to the baby. As the images of severed arms flashed on screen, women covered their mouths, sobbing and wailing as they cried out to God. The speaker asked those who have had abortions to stand up: 70 percent did: <http://bit.ly/1PjOvhM>.

This powerful DVD containing CBR video footage is having a tremendous effect on the church in China. It was distributed to over 2 million people in China in 2015 via The Children's Day Campaign.

Ironically, this is a federal holiday in China, the nation which tightly controls its population through forced abortion and sterilizations. On this day, Christians took to the streets in Chengdu with their "Don't Abort on Children's Day" signs which featured CBR abortion photos (above, center). Although they got shut down rather quickly by the police, this was still a historic victory in China to have abortion victim photos on display. We thank God for the brave young man who is leading the group in Chengdu. World magazine covered the Children's Day story and included photos of these courageous souls who need our prayers: <http://bit.ly/1YswfbZ>

As a direct result of seeing CBR's abortion and prenatal development videos, photos and being trained, a growing number of Christians in China are now engaging in outreach to mothers in crisis, including the start-up of pregnancy help services. Only God could orchestrate this move of His Spirit.

NEW UNC PRO-LIFE ORGANIZATION INSPIRED BY GAP

Pro-abortion students were enraged when our Genocide Awareness Project (GAP) came to University of Carolina Greensboro on November 9-10, 2015. They protested with paper signs, vulgar chants and even a satanic ritual. Our team remained steadfast and let the signs do the work. CBR-Virginia Project Director Jacqueline Hawkins helped lead discussions when she talked with the angry crowd for 2½ hours straight.

In the midst of the opposition, shy pro-lifers also appeared who were heartened by our presence. Daniel stood in the pouring rain on the first day and was emboldened by a conversation already in progress with a pro-abort girl. "It's a baby. You can't just kill it," he interjected. After the conversation ended, the young man shook our hands and told us how lonely he felt as a practicing Catholic on a liberal campus. He was glad that we were there to give a voice to the preborn and also to students like him.

We recruited Ashton, who desires to be the leader for a new campus pro-life organization. Additionally, three pro-life students pitched in to help take down the display at the end of the day as their peers shouted and jeered. That took courage.

VOLUNTEER SAVES HER OWN NIECE FROM BEING ABORTED

When Trista began serving as a CBR volunteer in California, she had no idea that she would be not only saving the lives of strangers' preborn babies, but also her own niece. Soon after Trista received training from CBR and began helping with our Corporate Accountability Project, she learned that her sister was pregnant and considering abortion. By using CBR abortion victim photos, she was able to help persuade her sister to reject abortion. Trista's niece is due to be born this winter!

CORPORATE ACCOUNTABILITY PROJECT VICTORY

We rejoiced when we learned that Chevron Corporation recently sent a letter to a shareholder who works with us indicating they will no longer give corporate donations to Planned Parenthood. We had picketed Chevron's May 2015 shareholder meeting with huge abortion victim signs and we had also begun displaying our "Choice" signs at Chevron gas stations in Oceanside, CA. This is a big victory which we trust will be followed by other companies ending their financial support of baby-killing and harvesting.
